Welcome to the next edition of our club's newsletter.

What a busy month!

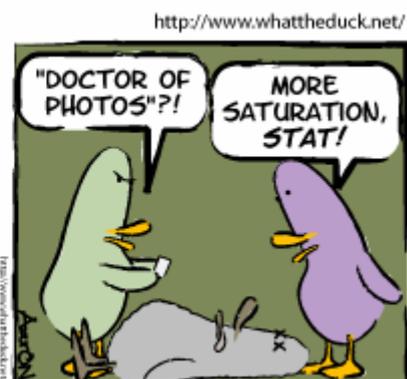

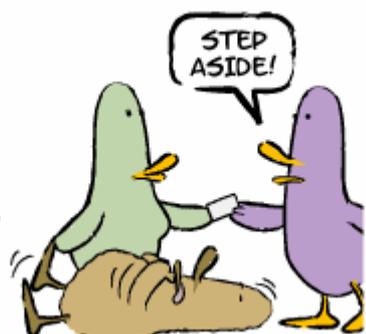

The club hosted both our usual club night, featuring our images for 'reflections' as well as being taken through a virtual bike tour of Japan by Mary Mullane, in addition to hosting our first ever photoshop workshop, ran by Adrian Smith.

The workshop, in the end, seemed to be quite successful – although we did have our teething problems with setting an appropriate agenda! I've included some of the promised links, in this newsletter, for those who were interested.

The September meeting's theme is 'atmosphere' and the entry deadline has past. You may submit any last minute entries for our October inter-club meeting with Preston, on the 13th if you haven't already.

As I will be away for the next 2 months, entires need to go to Orsola or Ian. Cheers, Paul & Sarah

Actually on that note, if anyone has a good ‘contact’ for equipment, processing, framing, etc please let me know via email and I’ll include the details in this newsletter. If they provide a discount for our club (why not ask?), even better.

Bits and Pieces

Free software After the photoshop workshop, you may want to get a software program but can't afford photoshop itself. This website, <http://www.snap2objects.com/2007/07/20/45-best-freeware-design-programs/>, has a list of 45 free image design programs.

Lost Bunyip is a free-to-use, community-based website with a focus on Australian travel photography. It's free to use and free to register. The nation's photographers have a way of capturing their home that is unique and informative, and it is for this reason we would like to invite your members to help us realise our vision of an online community that shares its experiences of photography and Australia. In return, they receive free, online space to display their work, and the chance to interact with other photographers, exchanging stories and ideas. You can find it at www.lostbunyip.com.au.

If you've got time, look out for one of Paul's photos appearing in the September edition of Australian Photography magazine.
