Hello All,

Winter feels well and truly here, but luckily there is plenty happening to tempt you (and your lens) out of the house. We have had our own Hunt 'n Shoot review and mini-workshop this month, and around town there is the Jazz festival, Fed Square's Light in Winter, and a host of school holiday events coming up. So grab your woollies and get out there!

Keep Snapping,
Paula

What The Duck

Club events

- 23rd June - Mini Workshop – Hunt 'n Shoot review

This month's mini workshop invites all members who participated in the H&S to bring their best 4 photos for the topics to share. Members who did not attend the H&S are most welcome to still come and check out the variety that the topics inspire.

The mini workshop will also cover some aspects of street photography and some post production processes.

- 14th July Club Meeting – The Golden Hour

Next month's meeting is on Thurs 14th July, 7:30 in the library as usual. The theme is 'The Golden Hour'. Don't forget to correctly label your prints. Prints are due to Mat by Sunday 3rd July.

You can also submit your entries for the following month 'Open' – at the next meeting.

- Upcoming event - Ballarat International Foto Biennale

20th Aug – 19th Sept, the Biennale has a fantastic range of exhibitions, workshops and exciting events over the month. See website for more details. <http://ballaratfoto.org/>

Our club will also be submitting 5 images for the event. See Paul if you are interested in participating.

We will also be going up to Ballarat for a club weekend.

Possible dates: 27th/28th Aug, or 3rd/4th Sept

Co-ordinator: Charlie Scicluna

Mobile: 0402964899 Email: chas56@optusnet.com.au

Ideally, a Sat night dinner venue could be arranged and members encouraged to car-pool/arrange accommodation amongst themselves.

From 2 years ago, it can be done as a day trip, although having the weekend allowed us to spend more time looking at all the exhibitions and enjoying the dinner more so.

Initially we would like to see how many are interested and what dates are preferred. Expressions of interest: to Charlie or at the next meeting.

- VAPS Muster Thanks to Joe and Clem for co-ordinating the VAPS weekend. We had about 10 members attend and it was a fantastic weekend.
- Preston Interclub preparations
We are calling for submissions for the Preston-Parklands interclub competition. We aim to submit a good cross-section of images from our club, so we encourage all members to contribute. The competition night is not until Sept, but we wanted to start early this year to be more organised. Please submit your prints to Matt. They will be selected during August's mini-workshop meeting.
- Photo mounts
Kath has picked up a selection of photo mounts in a range of shapes and sizes. Prices range from $5-7, see Kath if interested.
- Upcoming event – Worldwide Photowalk October 2nd
Paul will be running a photowalk. Details to come closer to the date.
- Upcoming event – Melbourne Open House July 30-31
MOH is scheduled for 30/31st July with over 75 buildings open to the public. Building lists are available through the website. It's a great opportunity for some architectural photographs <http://www.melbourneopenhouse.org.au/>

Photographer of the Month – Ken Duncan – Landscape

Born in Victoria, Duncan is one of Australia's leading landscape photographers. He has been capturing Australia's unique environment since he was a teenager. He is particularly known for his spectacular panoramic images. Duncan has been widely published and in 2009 received the Medal of the Order of Australia by the Australian Government for his services to the arts as a landscape photographer and publisher, and for his service to the Central Coast community.

Check out the following for a gallery of Duncan's images:

Member of the month – Gus Carfi

Gus is a recent member of our club. A few months ago he upgraded from a point and shoot to his first DSLR camera. Gus completed a short photography course recently at the CAE. He thought the course was very helpful and covered all the basics. Gus really enjoys the post production side of photography in Elements and Lightroom. His favourite photographer is Annie Lebowitz.

How to Photograph...Snow

Snowy landscapes can be tricky as the exposure and white balance settings can be affected by the bright conditions. Here are a few tips to help grab those great alpine shots.

Firstly take care of your equipment. Keep your cameras and lenses in well insulated camera bags, alternatively keep them under your jacket where your body heat will help keep them warm and dry.

For a basic starting point - Some cameras offer a Snow or Winter setting, and this feature can be very helpful for beginners. It usually corrects the Auto white balance calculation of the camera and lowers the exposure value to avoid over-exposing the image.

The very bright snow acts as a second light source by reflecting sunlight shining on the ground. Scenes with mainly white colouring can cause difficulties. The meter assumes that there is more light present than there actually is, even when light levels are quite low. This leads to underexposure and what is meant to be white in shade also appears as a murky shade of grey in the final image. Simply take a meter reading and overexpose the correct exposure by one or two stops. Bracketing will ensure one good image. It is also great if you can shoot during the Golden Hours, when the sun is low on the horizon, to capture the texture and shape of the snow on what would otherwise look like a uniform field of white.
